2 Action Tank

To develop impact projects through lobbying or through alliances with members

We select executive projects that we develop with the support of our members:

Promotion projects where, through the collaboration of key players, we promote new partnerships associated with the promotion of culture, science, tourism, or entrepreneurship.

Lobbying projects where we promote changes to encourage the improvement of the Barcelona brand or the attraction of talent and economic activity.

3 Global Network

To increase the commitment of Barcelona's civic partners and leaders through their engagement

We promote relationship and mobilization activities for more than 1,000 highly committed members that are willing to dedicate time, resources and contacts to Barcelona Global's projects.

We inform, through bi-monthly newsletter, what is happening in Barcelona in terms of talent, economic activity, culture, science, infrastructure and the city.

We give voice to our members through our relationship with the mainstream media. 174 articles have been published in La Vanguardia by members of the International Council and 131 interviews in El Periódico of our "Barcelonians by choice".

We connect our members through events that allow them to interact and learn about new realities in Barcelona.

We engage our members in projects where their input is key to open the city to international talent (Hola Barcelona!) or to act as volunteers in community projects.

We particularly work with three groups:

Barcelona 2040[®]

Young talent: through the Barcelona 2040 program, which aims to train and connect young professionals to make Barcelona known from all areas and develop proposals for the future.

International Council[®]

Barcelonians around the world: through the International Council, we work with professionals who live in the world's leading cities and have strong ties with Barcelona and are committed to its future.

Hola! Barcelona[®]

Barcelonians by choice: we facilitate the landing and integration of international talent who have decided to live and work in Barcelona.

Our top priorities

Barcelona & Partners®

Agency to attract investment to the Greater Barcelona metropolitan area. The main aim is to identify and attract systemic investment through public-private partnerships.

Partners involved: Ajuntament de Barcelona. Diputació de Barcelona. Consorci de la Zona Franca. Generalitat de Catalunya, Departament de la Vicepresidència i Polítiques Digitals, Ajuntament de l'Hospitalet de Llobregat

Participating companies: Abertis, Accenture, AGBAR, Banco Sabadell, CaixaBank, Catalana Occidente, CBRE, Colonial, Cuatrecasas, Deloitte, Eada, Enagas, Esade, Ferrer, Esteve, ESIC, Fundació Puig, Grupo Godó, Grupo Planeta, HP, IBM, Indra, Investindustrial, Naturgy, Racc, Telefónica.

Taxation for Talent and Entrepreneurship®

Barcelona Global, with a team of 15 top law firms, benchmarked the Spanish tax system on talent attraction and entrepreneurship (investors, entrepreneurs and employees) against 13 competing economies, and subsequently developed a set of proposals for amelioration. Through our work with governments and political parties to encourage their implementation, we have so far achieved the inclusion of substantial enhancements in the regulation. Nevertheless, there's still way for improvement and we continue working towards a neutral tax environment that will allow entrepreneurship and talent to thrive in Barcelona.

Streamlining of formalities for International Talent®

The Barcelona Global International Talent Monitor has repeatedly identified red-tape as one of the main issues for international professionals that relocate to Barcelona to work. Barcelona Global has mapped those formalities and set up conversations with the different levels of the public administration to make their landing process easier. Notable outcomes have been achieved, such as the creation by the City Council of a website collecting all the information about procedures and the opening of Barcelona International Welcome Desk to provide online and face to face assistance. Also, improvements in the formalities are being included in the Spanish regulation and we continue working with the central government to streamline the process related to the obtention of the residence permit.

Barcelona global hub

Higher Education®

It is estimated that in 2030, more than 10.2 million people will travel abroad to study for a bachelor's or master's degree. Barcelona Global believes that Barcelona should play a key role in the higher education sector, which is so important for economic development and attracting talent. To do so, it must remove regulatory obstacles, improve the city's brand positioning as an educational center, and take steps to internationalize the university system. These steps include: (1) attracting universities from other countries to set up a campus in Barcelona; (2) creating an international liberal arts campus in Barcelona; (3) boosting professional STEM education at the highest level; (4) creating institutionalized research collaborations amongst our best research centers and international leaders; and (5) creating a campus for the "European Universities" initiative.

Advocates: Andreu Mas-Colell (Barcelona Institute of Science and Technology - BIST) Teresa Garcia-Milà (Barcelona School of Economics - BSE). Joan Roca (Roca Junyent). Marcel Prunera (Crea Inversió) Main members involved: EADA, EAE, ELISAVA, EINA, ESADE, IED, IESE, IQS, ISDI Grupo Planeta, UAB, UB, UIC, UOC, UPC, UPF, UPF Barcelona School of Management, RMIT.

Barcelona Global ongoing projects

1. Talent attraction, retention and creation

Affordable and accessible international school

The companies and research centres in Barcelona successfully attract junior talent, but they struggle to hire professionals for middle management or senior researcher positions, often with young families. One of the main reasons they state is the unsuitability of the existing network of international schools in Barcelona to their needs. Despite them being fantastic in terms of quality, they are concentrated in areas of the city that are difficult to access by public transport and that would require long commuting times from where these professionals usually live, and the fees make them unaffordable for their level of salaries. Barcelona Global is developing a project to find solutions that can lower this barrier and therefore increase the city's attractiveness for middle management talent, which has a very big impact in the ability of the city's companies and research centres to compete internationally.

Advocates: Pau Guardans (Único Hotels). Gonzalo Rodés (aldeA Ventures). Emilio Cuatrecasas (Emesa). Oriol Barrachina (Cushman & Wakefield). Ramon García-Bragado (Brugueras, Alcántara & García-Bragado Abogados). Josep Lluís Sisternas (MSA+A). Barcelona is contributing to this initiative with: Dave Darsch (Shenandoah University).

Barcelona MBA Day

There are more than 600 international students studying global MBAs in Barcelona. Barcelona Global works with top managers to enable these students to make small group visits to the main companies, research centers, and cultural institutions.

Advocates: IESE, ESADE, EADA, UPF Barcelona School of Management. More than 80 members involved, among the companies and institutions visited during the Barcelona MBA Day and the volunteers that guided the groups.

The BEST foundation: the UPC/UPF Interuniversity Degree in Industrial Technologies and Economic Analysis

Barcelona Global has played a role in setting up the Barcelona Engineering, Science and Technology foundation (BEST), which promotes internationally competitive degrees in STEM subjects. The UPC/UPF Interuniversity Degree in Industrial Technologies and Economic Analysis, which is the first degree promoted by the foundation and has been running since 2018, has highly demanding entry requirements.

Advocates: Joaquim Coello (BEST foundation). Andreu Mas-Colell (Barcelona Institute of Science and Technology - BIST). Jordi Camí (Barcelona Biomedical Research Park - PRBB). FemCAT, UPC, UPF. Main partners involved: Acciona, Agrolimen, Cellnex, COMEXI, DOGA, La Farga, HP, Repsol, Fundació Sabadell, Nestlé, Agbar, BCN Languages, Mur&Partners, Noel

Emparejados

As the city overcomes the situation generated by the pandemic, the working group is re-assessing and updating the proposals for the benefit of any stakeholder designing city strategies in the coming years.

10 workstreams, with the participation of more than 30 key tourism stakeholders in the city, to regain quality, sustainable and competitive tourism that can become a driving force behind the talent economy. The report -the third about tourism published by Barcelona Global in the last 4 years-, intends to be a working base and seeks to identify the measures to be undertaken in the coming months, both by the different administrations and public operators and as well as by the private sector and the civil society, so that the tourism industry, key for the economy of Barcelona, emerges stronger from the most important crisis that an economic sector ever suffered in such a short period of time in the city.
